HOLMES DEFENSE IN

Will Present Prayers to the Court This Morning.

MAY GO TO JURY WEDNESDAY

Seven Petitions of Government, to Be Incorporated in Justice Stafford's Charge, Submitted—Counsel for Former Cotton Statistician Gets Similar Privilege To-day.

When court adjourned yesterday counsel for Edwin S. Holmes had completed its presentation of defense in the cotton-lease case, and the government had presented seven petitions to be incorporated in Justice Stafford's charge to the jury, and these had been agreed.

Justice Stafford agreed to hold a session of court this morning for the reception and arguing of the prayers to be offered by the defense.

Holmes resumed the stand yesterday morning and, under cross-examination by Special Attorney Beach, explained deposits of money made by him from December, 1904, to March, 1905, as being realized from his mining operations. On direct examination by Attorney Worthington, Holmes further explained certain letters which he had written to Lewis C. Van Riper, of New York, in August, 1904, following their initial meeting here. The government has laid stress upon the fact that these letters, in the handwriting of Holmes, are signed with the initial "H."

Forgets Use of Initial. On cross-examination, Holmes stated that he did not remember why he had used merely his initial. Mr. Worthington sought to show that these letters related to the private affairs of other parties, and in answer to a question, Holmes stated that undoubtedly they were in connection with another man's domestic affairs, into the details of which he felt he had no right to go. This line of examination was strongly objected to by the prosecution, but Holmes was finally allowed to answer that Peckham was having domestic trouble, and that he had been requested by him to write "under cover" to Mr. Van Riper. Mr. Worthington then asked the witness: "Do you know whether Peckham and his wife were living together at that time?"

District Attorney Baker objected to this question, and Holmes was not allowed to answer.

William H. Moran, now chief clerk of the Secret Service, called to the stand, and in response to questions by Assistant District Attorney Adkins, testified that Holmes had told him in June, 1905, that the letters signed "H." related to mining operations.

Contradicts Holmes. Moran also testified that Holmes told him about the same time that he had sold this mine to Van Riper for $25,000, and was paid in two payments, of $12,500 and $12,500, respectively. This contradicts Holmes, who testified that the mine was paid for in four payments.

In the course of the argument on the prayers submitted by the government, Attorney Worthington called the attention of the court to the fact that the indictment alleged a conspiracy between Holmes, Hiss, and Peckham, when, as a matter of fact, Hiss, according to the evidence put in by the government, was not present in the Raleigh Hotel on August 7, 1904, when, as alleged by the government, the conspiracy was formed.

Mr. Worthington also called to the stand a conspirator as much as any of the other three, if a conspiracy existed. It is thought that the case will go to the jury some time Wednesday. With the exception of some testimony in rebuttal, which the government may put in Monday, no other evidence will be taken in the case.

Butler, pastor of the church, officiating. The body was interred at Glenwood. Young Volker, who was but eighteen years of age, was graduated from the college June 13, but through a mistake, the diploma did not reach the home of his parents, 112 K street northeast, until the afternoon of the day he was drowned. He was highly thought of by his college friends, and Revs. John Souly, president of the college, and M. L. Fortier, who instructed the dead boy, are high in the praise of his ability and religious inclinations.

DRAUGHTSMEN MAY RESIGN.

Race War Threatens to Disrupt Architects in Treasury Department.

The race war which threatens to disrupt the officials of the supervising architect of the Treasury Department has reached Assistant Secretary Winthrop. The facts in the recent lawsuit between W. P. Ryder, of Maryland, and H. D. Woodson, a negro from South Carolina, recently sent to the draughting room by the Civil Service Commission, were laid before his superior by Supervising Architect Taylor.

It is said to be the belief of high officials that the appointment of another negro as draughtsman, without the department providing a "Jim-crow" reservation for them, may result in a majority of the white draughtsmen leaving the department. Feeling is intense.

DISAGREE IN MASONIC CASE

Jury Discharged After Failure to Reach Verdict.

New Trial Needed of Charges Against Reidel and Kennard of Selling Bogus Fraternity Degrees.

After deliberating from 2 until 5 o'clock, and coming in at about 4:30 for further instructions, the jury in the case of Alexander P. Reidel and Harry Kennard, who were charged with larceny in regard to the bestowal of bogus Masonic degrees, was unable to agree yesterday afternoon, and was finally discharged by Judge Mulhenny, of the Police Court.

No date was set for a new trial, and it is anticipated the men will continue out on bond until fall.

Yesterday's proceedings consisted of the address by Attorney J. W. Nichol, of counsel for the defendants, of Ralph Given, for the government, and the charge to the jury.

Attorney Nichol asked the discharge of his clients on the ground that when they offered to confer the degree, they were acting in good faith and were not violating any law in forming the Atlantis order. Reidel and Kennard were accused of having defrauded Messrs. Donaldson and Lippard out of $10 each by offering to confer degrees in an order which Reidel told the jury was one he was starting himself, and which he carefully explained to Kennard, who acted as Reidel's agent in the case in question.

Charles H. Ackert, general manager of the Southern Railway, yesterday issued an official denial of the story widely circulated in the South to the effect that there is a general shake-up coming in the personnel of the management of the system.

It has been intimated that the reorganization would be made along lines laid down by President Finley, and that the resignations of General Manager Ackert, Passenger Traffic Manager Hardwick, and General Passenger Agent Taylor were among those that would be forthcoming. Manager Ackert gave the assurance that there would be no such action, in a telegram from Asheville to a Southern newspaper.
